TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Idaho was organized as a territory in 1863 and was admitted to the Union as the forty-third state in 1890. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 431,866, which represents an increase of 106,272, or 32.6 per cent, over the 1910 figure. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of Idaho from 1870 to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

Counties.—Idaho has 44 counties. Twenty-one of these counties have been organized since 1910, and annexations have been made to 5 counties, resulting in many changes in boundaries. (See Table 1.) Because of the formation of the new counties it has been necessary, in preparing the maps on page 3, showing the rates of increase in total and rural population since 1910, to make the following combinations: Bannock and Caribou; Nez Perce, Clearwater, and Lewis; Washington and Adams; Kootenai and Benewah; Bonner and Boundary; Boise, Canyon, Idaho, Gem, Payette, and Valley; Lincoln, Gooding, Jerome, and Minidoka; Bingham, Blaine, Cassia, Fremont, Oneida, Bonneville, Butte, Camas, Clark, Franklin, Jefferson, Madison, Power, and Teton.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 83,354 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 5.2 (see Table 1), as against 3.9 in 1910 and 1.9 in 1900. (A small portion of Yellowstone National Park, 36 square miles in area, is located in Idaho, but the total population of the park has been returned as residing in Wyoming.)

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The primary divisions of the Idaho counties are the election precincts, 785 in number, for which the population is presented, so far as reported, separately. There are also 148 secondary divisions, comprising 36 cities, 109 villages, and 3

towns. In a number of cases a city or other incorporated place comprises an entire precinct or two or more precincts or parts of two or more precincts. In addition to these divisions there are one Indian reservation and part of another, which, though independent of any county organization, are returned as parts of the counties in which they are located; a section of Valley County belonging to the public domain; and a portion of Jerome County, unorganized, for which no population was returned. (See Table 2.)

Cities.—Idaho has 36 cities, of which Boise, with a population of 21,393, is the largest. Pocatello, with 15,001 inhabitants, is the only other city with a population of over 10,000. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each city having 5,000 or more inhabitants in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade:

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. Consequently the territory comprised within any one class of cities or that designated as urban or as rural does not remain fixed, because any given place may, through the growth or the decline of its population, pass from one class to another at successive censuses. The proportion of the population of Idaho living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 6.2 per cent in 1900 to 21.5 per cent in 1910 and to 27.6 per cent in 1920.

TABLE 1.—AREA AND POPULATION OF COUNTIES: 1870 TO 1920.

[In computing the increase from 1890 to 1900 for certain counties the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make it comparable with the total for 1890, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The deductions thus made for the several counties are as follows: Bingham, 939; Kootenai, 752; and Lemhi, 486.]
